

LFS ACE (Academic & Career Engagement) Position Description

Role overview

The LFS Academic and Career Engagement Team (ACE Team) focuses on delivering programming related to academic success and career development that allows participants to gain and apply relevant skills, be exposed to campus and Faculty-specific resources, and engage with their peers. Further, members of LFS ACE Team gain specific skills in the areas of project management and student development, increase their knowledge of student resources and outlets, and expand their friendships and professional relationships across the Peer Programs Network and the broader community of student leadership on campus.

Organizational Relationship

The ACE Team is a group of LFS undergraduate students representing all four programs (Applied Biology, Global Resource Systems, Food & Resource Economics and Food, Nutrition, & Health) who are invested in creating a sense of community and support in the areas of academics and career-related development opportunities for their peers. The primary way that LFS ACE Team does this is through a variety of events and workshops hosted throughout the year and the development of complimentary passive resources targeted at undergraduate students in the Faculty.

LFS ACE Team is a student-driven team that is supervised by the LFS Student Engagement Officer and is part of the Student Services Office in the Faculty of Land and Food Systems. There are also several staff from the LFS Student Services team that support and advise the team on specific initiatives.

Due to the ongoing impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic, the details of this role may change during the planning process for the 2022-2023 academic year. If you have questions about what this might look like, including your individual circumstances for the 2022/2023 academic year, please contact Thilini Leitan, thilini.leitan@ubc.ca.

Primary Functions

Student leaders within the LFS ACE team should expect to:

1. Work in committees to support the academic and career development of LFS undergraduate students:

The following committees support current initiatives and priorities with the Faculty of LFS. While each committee has a specific role, the expectation is that all LFS ACE student leaders will work collaboratively, where appropriate, to fulfill their committee objectives.

All Committees:

- Meet once a week for an hour to develop skills, plan for activities/programs etc.

Specific Committees will focus on one of the following:

- Comms Committee: Preparing and developing communications content for LFS ACE events & workshops on platforms including but not limited to social media, the Newsletttuce, LFS ACE Facebook page.
- Events Committee: Planning and implementing one of the four LFS ACE events (Let's Talk About Research, Is Grad School Right for Me, Discover Your Major and Your LFS: Career Stories with Our Alumni).
- Workshops Committee: Preparing, coordinating and facilitating academic, wellness and career related workshops for LFS undergraduate students including but not limited to Bounce Back in Term 2 and Mapping Your Major.

2. Model outstanding student leadership on campus

- Act as an ambassador for student leadership at UBC and as a representative of the Faculty of Land & Food Systems and the ACE Team.
- Understand the role of an LFS ACE student leader and active participant in the Peer Programs Network plays within the community of leadership on the UBC-Vancouver campus.
- Contribute to and model behavior reflective of an environment at UBC that is dedicated to excellence, equity, and mutual respect.
- Uphold UBC's Respectful Environment Statement as a responsible member and ambassador of the UBC community.

3. Engage in personal and professional skill development

- Develop an understanding of your personal leadership style when working both individually and in a team.
- Gain practical skills that can be used in both an academic and career environment such as professional communication, giving and receiving feedback, meeting planning and facilitation, needs-driven program planning, and teamwork.
- Help to plan and facilitate the recruitment, interview, and selection process for incoming ACE Team members in May 2023, gaining a new perspective on interview practices and expectations.

4. Other responsibilities

- Participate in LFS ROOTSS Canvas Discussion boards.
- Support the LFS ROOTSS Program Coordinator in promoting ACE within ROOTSS.
- Contacting the LFS Student Services student staff to post on various Canvas discussion boards.
- Coordinate and attend all meetings related to your selected events and committees.
- Attend and help implement all ACE Team events & workshops throughout the year.
- Meet individually with Committee Staff Advisor at the end of each term to set goals and reflect on contributions.
- Represent the ACE Team and the Faculty of Land & Food Systems with professionalism fitting for a student leader and role model.

Benefits of participating in this role

Develop professional skills

- Enhance leadership skills in the areas of communication, team-building, personal and professional growth, networking, and thoughtful inclusion of others.
- Gain experience in supporting and developing programming for your LFS peers.
- Gain experience in hiring and recruitment best practices.

Increased opportunity for partnerships with programs and peers across campus

- Participate in and contribute to a strong and dynamic culture of student leadership on campus.
- ACE Team members are part of a larger community within the Faculty and seek opportunities to work closely with the LFS Undergraduate Society and other student groups, LFS Student Services, the Centre for Student Involvement and Careers, Alumni UBC, faculty members, and other Peer Programs in order to better serve their peers and expand their professional network.
- Contribute to and learn from a broader Peer Programs Network, which engages both within and beyond the UBC campus community in support of and in service to others

Commitment to Equity and Inclusion

- Equity and diversity are essential to the academic community at UBC, and are essential to LFS ACE programming that will support all incoming students. A diverse leader community can help contribute to effective community building and to the empowerment of voices that have been underrepresented or discouraged. We encourage applications from members of groups that have been marginalized on any grounds enumerated under the B.C. Human Rights Code, including sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, racialization, disability, political belief, religion, marital or family status, age, and/or status as a First Nation, Metis, Inuit or Indigenous person.
- We expect all applicants to be committed to equity and inclusion, and leaders will be provided with ongoing training related to these topics. We expect all applicants to show respect for all people and their differences, demonstrate fairness and equity, work to understand the perspectives of others, promote cooperation and collaboration, bring out the best in others, demonstrate empathy and use respectful language.
